Penny Scrapbook

Penn's Scrapbooks: Penn spent $500 having her scrapbooks digitally copied professionally by Marlo Lee. I have an (external label PENNY SCRAPBOOK) turquoise blue Lexar flash drive [with the other flash drives in the Horse Head "false book" from Ruthie] with those scrapbooks captured, page by page. We have several copies of this, plus 'the original' flashdrive. However what I am interested in are the cropped and individual photos and documents. Here's what we found with search for "scrap" and "scrapbook": nothing in Box Sync or in Dropbox; OneDrive claims nothing as well. Thus were located not in cloud, but on hard drives.
On HP |Envy computer [was at Toro, but now an 'extra' computer in David's Room at Stalgren Ct] under Documents > Family > Mike's > Blackledge Stories work area – Toro we have: Scrapbook Pages Worked, with 3 subfolders: Album 1, Album 3 – 21Aug2015, and Album 4. Also an Excel file: Index-Penn'sScrapbooks.xls [quite limited; like I just got started on that huge indexing project] and penn scraps - cabin work
The 'real' collection of these scrapbooks, with the painstaking images I edited of each page, is also under HP Envy computer [again, no longer at Toro] but under Pictures > family photos > Penn's Scrapbooks > Scrapbook Pages Worked. Here I have each of the 4 scrapbooks, and for each, I work it all the way down to a small grouping of the individual 4 pages or so at a time, e.g., Scrapbook Pages Worked > Album 1 > Archived Lexar Drive -31 thru 45 and then a subfolder for each group of 4 or so pages: Pages 31-32 – done! Where the done! Indicates I have those pages edited and saved photo by photo. Make sense?

Here's a look at the Blue Turquoise Lexar flash drive [external label PENNY SCRAPBOOK):

And in the folder:

So … what is ‘worked’ and what ain’t? In the HP Envy (as noted above), I may have it ‘all’ worked, but not on this flash drive.

Right now, I am going to look for photos of Debbie!
